

Centralized Teamwork

Ocean Central makes it possible to tie all Ocean users together via network and internet. With Ocean Central you can save all measured data in one place and easily distribute templates to all users.

Making Management Easy

Ocean Central will give you increased quality and efficiency. Communicate to everyone at the same time, get an overview of the work load and always be confident that the most recent documents are used.

Ocean Centralized Database

This Database software for use with RTI's Piranha and Barracuda multimeters now has a new powerful enhancement – Ocean Central.

Ocean Central is a centralized database option, which makes it possible to tie all Ocean users together via network and internet. With Ocean Central you can save all measured data in one place and easily distribute templates to all users. RTI's focus of making work easier is a reality with Ocean Central.

Simplicity and consistency are some of the benefits that come from saving all data in one place and sharing the same templates – whether the measured data are used by a small or large team.

According to Schedule

Use the Central scheduling feature and everyone's "to-do-list" is showing what is coming up for them.

Increase safety by storing data centrally – reducing the risks that come with a damaged or lost computer.

Ocean Central Administrator

Plans measurements – sends out schedule and templates

Reviews reports with measurements from the user

Approves measurements before placing them into the central database

If measurement is not approved, the administrator sends it back to the user

Ocean User

Receives the most recent templates and lists of X-ray units to check

Helps assure that measurements are according to carefully planned protocols

When ready – signs the finished report

Sends measurements to Ocean Central
